

Religious Education shares with other subjects the task of helping children to acquire the skills, knowledge and social competence for their personal developments. They are introduced to Christianity and other major religions through story, and the study of people past and present whose lives have influenced societies. Additionally, they will examine the practices of these faiths. The school follows the LA's Agreed Syllabus, which is available for parents to see at any time on request. Parents are reminded of their rights to withdraw their child from religious education.
